On October 4th, the Acworth Police Department received a donation in the amount of $3,720.00 from Yvette Williams from Realty4Rehab for the purchase of Narcan. Narcan is medication that is used to reverse the effects of opiate overdoses. Over the past several years, the occurrences of opiate overdoses have increased exponentially. This is, in part, due to the introduction of fentanyl which has exacerbated the problem, and also puts first responders at risk of exposure. Yvette Williams is the driving force behind Realty4Rehab, which is an organization that works to fight addiction and to save lives. The Acworth Police Department is grateful to them for their work as well as for their determination to help protect the community. Ms. Williams has been personally impacted by the opiate epidemic, as many in our nation have been. Ms. Williams and Chief Dennard both understand that addiction to opioids knows no bounds. It affects those from all walks of life. Acworth Police are so thankful for the important work that has led to this donation. This is a noble mission that will give someone a second chance at life and spare family members the hurt of a loss.
